COLLEGE OF NOTRE DAME TO MOVE FROM SAN JOSE TO BELMONT

Gardner Sanitarium Property to Be Used as Location for Famous Old Convent

It was stated yesterday that the College of Notre Dame of San Jose had completed arrangements for the purchase of the Gardner Sanitarium at Belmont and may move the convent there.

Dr. Sherman Gardner, one of the proprietors of the sanitarium, said yesterday that the deal is at present pending and that no agreement had been reached as yet. It is rumored that the Catholic church has sold its San Jose convent for a large sum. The property is located in the business section of the city and contains four city blocks. The present buildings are antiquated and if the church desires to continue using the San Jose location it would be necessary to spend considerable money for new buildings. Several hundred girls, most of whom are boarders, now attend the San Jose Notre Dame convent.

Must Move to Improve

The city council of San Jose has been trying to buy a right of way through the convent property for a street to open up that section of the city as a business community. In some quarters it is said this will be done and that the sisters may retain a portion of the land for a day school and maintain the Belmont place as a boarding institution.

The College of Notre Dame is one of the oldest and best known girls' schools in the state. Many prominent women of California, high in society and holding prominent places in the social and civic spheres of the state, were educated there. The moving of the institution to this county will add another establishment of learning to the many already in this section. The great Stanford University casts its shadows on this county and considerable of the property of the university lies in San Mateo county. A little to the east of this big institution is located St. Patrick's Seminary, near Menlo Park, where young men are trained for the priesthood. A short distance away near the foothills close to Menlo Park is situated the College of the Sacred Heart, conducted by the Madames of the Sacred Heart. This institution is famed as a great seat of learning for young girls. Prominent families in all parts of the west send their girls there to be educated. Not far away is the William Warren School for Boys. Here the pupils are given military training and are sent forth from the place with trained minds and healthy, well developed bodies.

Numerous Schools in County

At Belmont there is a school for young men conducted by Father Murray under the auspices of Archbishop E. J. Hanna. At Redwood City soon will be erected one of the finest high schools in the state. It will be erected in a beautifully located tract of 40 acres. Here will be constructed a stadium and an athletic field that is to be second to none in California. The other high schools and grammar schools in the county are not excelled anywhere. The purchase of the Hanson property at Redwood City for the Sisters of the Notre Dame Academy is another step in the way of school facilities. The property is one of the most attractive places in the country for a convent.

There are other private educational institutions at San Mateo that are noted for the training of boys.

A Romantic Location

The property to be purchased by the good sisters at Belmont is one that is fraught with romance and tragedy. There in days gone by were entertained the crowned heads of Europe, prominent men of this country and noted ambassadors lingered there. At that place a social tragedy occurred that stirred the country in the eighties.

Away back in the early seventies there came to Belmont a young man named William Ralston, who had accumulated a fortune in the mines of California and Nevada. He was a giant of finance, a magnate in the industrial world. Having all the money he desired his heart begged for a palatial home where he could entertain. This young financier sought the calm precincts of Belmont and there purchased a tract of land that nestled in the foothills, an ideal place for such a home. There he built a beautiful residence, surrounding it with attractively laid out grounds. He was lavish in the expenditure of money to make the home one of the show places of the state. It was indeed one of the prettiest domiciles in California.

The Ralston Tragedy

Mr. Ralston had a retinue of servants and had for his foreman the late George Green, who afterward became sheriff of San Mateo county. Ralston entertained royally. The nobility of Europe and the prominent political leaders of the United States found haven there. At one time he entertained Princess Louise, one of the charming daughters of Queen Victoria of England. When General Grant returned from his famous trip around the world he was feted at the Ralston home. The crown prince of Italy spent several days at this hospitable home in 1873.

Horses Against Railroad

Ralston was haughty and pompous and quarreled with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. He was determined to get even with the concern and vowed he would not travel on its trains. He immediately constructed the old shell road from San Francisco around the bay to San Bruno, thus shortening the distance to the city. Ralston then established relays of horses from his ohme at Belmont to his office at the Palace Hotel. His carryall and four horses would start early in the morning as the train left Belmont for the city. The first stop would be at Blankens, where a change of horses would be made. Ralston always arrived in San Francisco ahead of the train. He kept this up for years. As he would leave his relay stations he would invariably toss a handful of coins to the hostlers.

Ralston was an enterprising and progressive man. To him Burlingame may give thanks for the splendid row of shade trees along the highway. At that time he owned a large tract of land on the highway. He named it Burlingame after his friend, Anson Burlingame, then minister to China. Large rows of trees were planted on both sides of the highway which have been for many years admired by the traveling public. The property was acquired afterward by Sharon.

Ralston in the zenith of his glory and power built the Palace Hotel in San Francisco. He afterward became president of the Bank of California and was president of the stock exchange. In those days he was asosciated with the late C. N. Felton, afterward United tSates senator It would seem Ralston had no other worlds to conquer.

But there came a time when he outdid himself. The great financier began to lose in the stock market and suddenly a crash came and Ralston was in a bad financial position. A run was made on the Bank of California. Its doors were closed, Ralston was deposed. One bright morning a few days afterward Ralston plunged into the bay at North Beach and was drowned. Many believed he committed suicide, but the verdict of the coroner's jury was that the death of Ralston was accidental.

Sharon Buys the Property

The palatial home at Belmont was bought by William Sharon, a mining man of California and Nevada. He later became United States senator from the Sagebrush state. Sharon entertained with the prodigality of Ralston. The big event in the noted home was the marirage of Sharon's winsome and pretty daughter, Flora Sharon, to Lord Hesketh of England. Notables from Europe and social leaders from all parts of this country attended this notable wedding. Thousands of dollars were lavishly expended in preparing for the event, the like of which in point of extravagant splendor has never been surpassed in this country. Sharon was very wealthy. He became owner of the Palace Hotel, dividing his time between that place and his country home at Belmont.

Sharon's Bad Break

Sharon was a social lion. His wife was dead, his wealth untold and in a mistaken moment he installed a mistress at the Belmont home. She was pretty, charming and prepossessing Sarah Althea Hill. The young woman reigned as queen in the palatial halls, where she was shown in all her beauty. Her gorgeous dresses were sights for the gods, her jewels were of the rarest, the best that any money could buy. Sharon reveled in her beauty. But a break came. The beauteous Sarah Althea tired of the old senator and broke from him. She brought a breach of promise suit in the courts of San Francisco, asking a large sum of money for her injured feelings. The case was tried before Judge J. F. Sullivan and he gave her a judgment. No law suit in San Francisco ever attracted so much attention as this one. The San Francisco papers devoted pages every day to the noted trial. Judge Terry appeared for Sarah Althea and the late W. H. L. Barnes represented Sharon. The case went to the higher court and was finally decided in favor of Sharon.

Judge Terry, the principal actor in the Broderick-Terry duel in the fifties, afterward married Sarah Althea. Terry was killed some time later in an assault on Judge Field by David Nagle, the judge's bodyguard. Sarah Althea's mind gave way and she was confined to an asylum, where she died some years ago. Shoron lost his prestige and some years later died a broken man.

Gardner Buys Belmont Place

The property at Belmont was sold to the late Dr. Gardner, a specialist in nervous diseases. Maniacal laughter resounded in large halls where once the gaiety of royalty held sway in all its splendor. The property has been held by the Gardners for many years.

The historic old home will now become the abiding place of the dark robed sisters who will teach and train girls of tender age true morality, instruct them in Christian piety and instill in them a constant love of God and will send them forth from these sacred precincts with splendidly moulded characters to battle for the higher and better things of this life on their journey to their final goal.

DIVIDING BIG TRACTS FOR SMALL HOMES ATTRACTIVE FOR WHOEVER ROAMS

Where Redwoods of Size Lift Their Heads to the Skies, as a Way to Evade Frisky Gnomes

C. E. Dimmitt, the city engineer, is a very busy man these days laying out subdivisions in different parts of the county. He has just completed the work of dividing the Mary's Help Hospital tract at Menlo Park for Archbishop Hanna. The property was left to the archbishop many years ago by the late Mrs. Robert Johnston together with other realty to endow the Mary's Help Hospital in San Francisco. The tract consists of 64 acres of land, which is divided into acre lots to be sold at $1,500 to $2,000 an acre. M. A. McCann, the realty broker, is the sales agent for the property. A big portion of the land has been sold already.

Mr. Dimimtt has also subdivided the Henry Dearborn ranch up the Pescadero creek about ten miles from the town of Pescadero. The tract is located in the midst of towering redwoods fronting on the creek. It is an ideal place for week end homes, close to nature in its sublimity and grandest manifestations. The matchless music of the feathered chorus, accompanied by the orchestral notes of the murmuring redwoods and pine trees, the fragrance of the primitive flora make an Edenlike attractiveness of the place, which is to become the week end home for the San Francisco business and profesisonal man. There he may rest from his cares beneath the tall redwoods and whispering pines and listen to the ripple of the waters as they rush off to their home in the bosom of the peaceful Pacific not far off. The land is laid out in lots and acre tracts to sell at $200 to $1,000.

HAPPENINGS AT SEQUOIA HIGH SCHOOL

By MURA STILLESON, '22

Wednesday afternoon the Sequoia girls' basketball varsity journeyed to San Mateo to play the first game of the league schedule. A number of rooters found their way to the San Mateo "gym" and with Maude Stilleson leading the yells the Sequoia spirit was present throughout the game.

At 4 o'clock the referee blew the whistle and the ball was put into play. San Mateo gained possession of it, but failed to score. The ball "floated" around center for half a minute and then San Mateo was given a free throw because of a foul by Sequoia. They missed the goal, but a few seconds later threw a field goal for two points. After that it was easy sailing for the northern players and at the end of the half the score was 14 to 0 in San Mateo's favor. Too many fouls on Sequoia's part was partly responsible for this one-sided score.

Undaunted in spirit the players went back into the game with all the fight they could command—which wasn't a little. By playing an offensive game the local team kept San Mateo from scoring more than five points in the last two quarters and themselves scored three points on fouls. When the final whistle blew the score stood 19 to 3 in favor of San Mateo.

Mirra Driven and Letitia Gadberry are to be commended for their offensive playing. Miss Bice and Miss Beeger are coaching the team.

Sequoia went into the game greatly handicapped, but the ever present Sequoia spirit buoyed the players and inspired them to fight to the end.

The lineup was as follows: Forwards, Mura Stilleson (captain, Dorothy Beebe, Charlotte Stephens; centers, Bessie Payne, Clara Curtis; guards, Mirra Drivon, Letitia Gadberry, Margaret Cullen; substitutes, Dolores Lyons, Marcella O'Keefe.

We do not feel discouraged, for "it isn't the fact that you lost that counts; but only, how did you lose?"

Carnival a Success

The senior carnival which was given last Saturday was a great success. The Hallowe'en revelry was held in the "barn" on the high school campus and it certainly furnished enjoyment to everyone who was present. Artistic decorations in orange and black carried out the Hallowe'en effect. The booths displayed skill and originality on the part of the girls who were responsibel for their arrangement. Serpentine and confetti added to the decorations.

The concessions were all good, especially the one for "men only." This sideshow was very popular with the male sex and it caused much wonder and envy among those who were barred from entering. San Mateo, as "Hit the Nigger Baby" received severe injuries from enthusiastic Sequoians. Romany was besieged by impatient mortals who could not wait for the gradual unraveling of their fates. True to promise, there was one unlucky fisherman among the throng which swarmed the banks of the burlap fishing pond. Old Mother Witch was there, and the goodies which she had soon disappeared. The chamber of horros was just as spooky as some of those hair-raising tales in Dickens' "Pickwick Papers." Wailings and screeches of the unfortunate victims in clutches of the king of the underworld caused many hearts to miss a beat or two. Goblins and floating spirits were among the countless horrors in the mysterious chamber. There was dancing all the evening and excellent music made it more enjoyable.

Kewpie dolls candy cats and a small puppy were auctioned off by two of the senior boys. If you were not present you missed the chance of a lifetime to secure some valuable additions to the family menagerie.

The carnival was one of the most successful affairs which has been given by Sequoia students. The proceeds exceed $150 and this is a fine start toward the publishing of the 1922 "Sequoyah" annual. The carnival was given by the seniors, but it was the co-operation of the whole school which made it successful. The support from the community was very encouraging, for it shows that others have an interest in the school doings.

Miss Boyle, the senior adviser, deserves a great deal of credit for her excellent management of the carnival and the seniors' appreciation for her untiring efforts is without bounds. Miss Cowden, Miss Gale, M. A. Ryan and Thomas Heydenfeldt are among the others who were of great help to Sequoia. We wish to thank Mr. O'Keefe of the Times-Gazette for the amount of space given us in his paper for our advertising.

The seniors have shown that Sequoia's school spirit cannot be beat. Redwood City has the best high school there is. This carnival is only a starter for this year, so watch the newspaper columns in the future.

Proper Credit Given

The senior carnival article written for this paper last week was by Moud Stilleson and not by Lorraine Bresse as was inadvertently stated. The article would do credit to a professional writer. Miss Stilleson is a very clever girl and is certain to make her mark in the literary world. Miss Bresse is also a clever writer.

By LORRAINE BRESSE

Redwood was alive with excitement Friday night, October 28, when Sequoia High held its first bonfire rally for Saturday's football game. The usually quiet streets were transformed into a scene of a lively night-shirt parade made up of boy students who made the air ring with school yells. Pallbearers carrying the coffin of Old Man Defeat led the parade, which gradually wended its way through town to the foothill field, where the coffin was thrown into the midst of the flames of an immense bonfire.

The boys then serpentined about the fire, singing school songs and giving yells which were reinforced by the additional voices of the many spectators.

Sequoia didn't win the game Saturday, but the defeat was not due to lack of spirit; instead to unfortu-

Mr. McSweeney leaves this morning for Halfmoon Bay on a collecting tour, expecting to return in the afternoon.

SILVA'S MARRIED LIFE WAS SHORT AND SQUALLY

Brief and stormy was the married life of William J. Silva, who filed a suit for divorce here this week. The complaint in the case states that he was married to his wife Margaret the day before Christmas last year. Since then, he says, she has nagged and abused him, calling him bad names and ordered him off the earth when he went to her mother's home and attempted to effect a reconciliation with the wife who had left him. Walter H. Duane of San Francisco is attorney for Silva.

TRUCKS WITH BIG JAGS MUST TAKE LIGHTER LOADS

Supervisor John MacBain with a corps of road experts, both state and county, is doing good work in holding up all the overloaded trucks on the state highway at Five Points. During the week numerous drivers were halted and the trucks and loads weighed. A number were found to be carrying excess weight. The drivers were turned over to the authorities. The road between Five Points and Finger lane is under the jurisdiction of the municipality of Redwood City. It has been seriously damaged by the heavy trucks and it must be repaired at once. Mr. MacBain has been ever vigilant, but despite his watchfulness the road has been ruined.

Faith in Faith Is Lost as Faith Fails to Navigate Successfully

The Faith, the cement ship built here during the war and for which great things were predicted, was sold at New Orleans last week by the sheriff for $4,000. The launching of the vessel here in 1918 was a holiday. Everyone went to see the new leviathan of the waves as she dashed into the waters. From all sections came people to watch the launching of the new ship that was to cause a revolution in shipbuilding. The Faith was an experiment and cost her owners over half a million dollars. She made several trips to the islands and to Europe during the war and the proceeds from these reimbursed her owners. However, the vessel proved a failure. The hull was too bulky and too cumbersome to ride the waves and could not make time in sailing. Last week she entered New Orleans after a long voyage. On arriving in port the Faith was libeled by the crew and other creditors and sold under the hammer. Had the ship been a success the promoters of the new idea in shipbuilding would have constructed large yards here. The people had faith in the Faith, but the Faith proved unfaithful.

PRINCETON HAS A WHALE ATTRACTION ON BEACH

A large whale was washed up on the beach at Princeton last week and since that time hundreds of people from the city of the mountains have made pilgrimages to the ocean beach to see the monster of the deep. The whale is the largest ever seen on this coast. Unless removed the atmosphere in a short time will be redolent with smells that will drive people away from that locality, as was the case in San Francisco a few years ago when the decomposing carcass of a whale polluted the air for miles along the southern shore. The body was towed out to sea and released. It drifted back and finally the fire department managed to destroy it by burning.

THE HUNTERS CAN'T FAIL TO GET RABBITS AND QUAIL

The quail season opened very auspiciously last Tuesday for the hunters. The weather was at its best, the birds were plentiful, thoug wary of the hunters. However, limit bags were secured by all who sought the haunts of the quail in the hill and mountain districts.

Guy Hull secured the limit of 15 birds in the foothills back of San Carlos. George and John Genochio had good shooting at Pompino, each getting the limit. Jeff Moore shot the limit at La Honda. Ernest Werder and Joseph Perry together secured 30 fine birds at San Gregorio. Robert Letts managed to secure 15 birds near Pescadero, while Franklin Swart got the permitted number in the foothills back of his home. The season also opened on that day for cottontail rabbits, but few were hunted, all the hunters devoting their time to shooting the timid quail.

A girl's face may be her fortune, and if it's painted it may be her misfortune.

JORDAN GIVES A GOOD TALK ON DISARMAMENT

A large audience greeted Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, when he delivered an address in the Congregational church Sunday night on "Disarmament and Peace." Dr. Jordan spoke for over an hour, holding his big audience in close attention to the end of his masterly and compelling speech. He brought out many new points of information regarding disarmament.

"The militarism of Japan is in reality a small thing," said Dr. Jordan. It is bound to go, as the European militarist groups have gone. Japan has no intention of making war on the United States and I believe the delegates from the mikado land will strongly favor of disarmament."

The lecture by Dr. Jordan was given under the auspices of the laymen's club of the Congregational church, with the following committee in charge: A. C. Argo, Donald MacKenzie, L. P. Behrens, Captain Collings and D. W. Williams. He was introduced by L. P. Behrens. Preceding the meeting Dr. and Mrs. Jordan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Behrens at dinner at the home of the latter on Jefferson avenue.

OUR BRIDGE PLANS

After a prospector goes to all the trouble and expense of locating a paying mining claim he is sure to be considerably worked up if a less fortunate individual tries to take possession. In fact, if he is a man of spirit, he will defend his right to the claim with his life. Certainly he will put up a strong fight, even though the odds may be overwhelmingly in favor of the other fellow. It is in this manner the people of this part of San Mateo county view the proposition announced at San Mateo that an effort will be made to have the bay bridge located at Coyote Point.

Redwood City and vicinity originated the proposition to bridge the bay so that autoists and others may have a roadway to the central portion of the state without going down to San Jose or being submitted to the expense and delay of a ferry. The Dumbarton location is the logical one, being at the narrowest portion of the bay where it would interfere less with navigation than anywhere else. It is about the only point below San Francisco where the United States authorities would grant permisison to build a bridge.

The proposed bridge is intended to be used for a great volume of traffic, both pleasure and business. On this side of the bay it brings the roadway nearer to more towns and cities than the northern bridge would. At the same time it does not cause longer travel to reach San Francisco. Get those things in mind firmly.

Of course it is the line of talk for a private concern in San Francisco to decry an effort locally to construct a bridge and highway of this sort. No one blames its promoters for trying to grab a concession that is bound to be immensely profitable if it can be secured. But such a thing as a toll road and bridge privately owned is not in keeping with modern ideas. A highway should be owned by the public. It is the history of toll roads that sooner or later they become public property. The people will not tolerate any such monopoly when it stands in the way of progress.

Private capital would be only too glad to get possession of the bridges from New York to Brooklyn. The dividends that could be collected from tolls would be fabulous. In the future a bridge across the bay will be used as freely as some of those in eastern localities where population is more dense. While there may not be so many people out here they go to San Francisco very freely. It is a concentration point, a place of attraction and of business. It will be even greater. Foresighted are the promoters of the Coyote Point proposition. They have golden dreams. Of course they don't want any interference. They have looked over our claim and have come to the conclusion that it is a paying one. So they want to jump it, run the thing to suit themselves and extract golden tribute for years to come.

But the people down this way are not inclined to let this sort of thing go through. They know they disclosed the plan first. They know they have the only location that is practicable and available. They are going right ahead with plans for securing the bridge, the private corporate interests of San Francisco to the contrary notwithstanding. They may claim that Hetch Hetchy money can be secured for their enterprise, but it is only a claim. In the big town they have a way of favoring publicly owned enterprises as against privately conducted monopolies. It would be a manifest absurdity to decide to run the Hetch Hetchy water mains over a privately owned bridge when one owned by the public is available. The water project is being completed in order to free the public of San Francisco from the grasp of a privately owned monopoly. Hence if its lines are to cross the bay anywhere they would naturally take the course where tribute, if any, is paid to publicly owned institutions.

After all, the contest narrows to a choice between public ownership and private monopoly. In spite of the opinion of the manager of the San Mateo chamber of commerce that the votes of the three cities would defeat a bonding proposition for Dumbarton it is only fair to believe that the rest of the county has some ideas on the subject also. If the dog in the manger policy is to be assumed at San Mateo it is only reasonable to assume that if such defeat is administered and the Coyote Point proposition ever comes up for a decision at the hands of the voters, this part of the county would reciprocate most heartily. But such action is not what is wanted. Prediction of non-support for our proposition comes in very bad grace. The San Mateo and Burlingame crowd had better abandon talk of that sort, get in line for the Dumbarto bridge and support efforts to secure it. Any other course is liable to mean that no bridge at all will be secured.

GERMAN COMPETITION A BUGABOO

"It takes more than price cutting to win and hold a market permanently," declares Dr. Julius Klein, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who scouts the assertions that Germany is running this country out of foreign markets, and whose optimism concerning our foreign trade is infectious.

"The fear of German competition appears to be the dominating influence in the minds of persons who have been voicing apprehensions of disaster," continues Dr. Klein. "They have visions of German merchandise flooding foreign markets and being eagerly welcomed at prices with which the American manufacturers, with their high production costs and appreciated currency will not be able to compete. But government experts who have investigated this troublesome problem in all its phases consider the German 'menace' as a specter whose capacity for harm has been distinctly exaggerated. Quaily, delivery terms and credit arrangements are three vitally important factors, and these must be taken into account in analyzing the vague reports concerning German success. A marked deterioration in German goods is reported by foreign representatives of the department of commerce—the German necessity of purchasing foreign raw materials for certain industries tends to offset the supposed advantage of the depreciated mark exchange, when the resulting manufactured goods are offered in foreign markets. It should be borne in mind, moreover, that American exporters are incomparably better prepared to meet German competition now than they were before the war—having the benefit of seven yars of pracical xprinc and succss."

By placing our domestic market on a firm basis through the agency of the protective tariff, a foundation will be assured for building up trade in foreign lands.

A statesman, in the fullest sense of the word, Senator Knox's brilliant mind and piercing perception never shone to greater advantage than in dealing with the larger relationships of this country with the world. At this juncture of our national and international affairs, with so much still hanging in the balance, his death is indeed a very great loss. This national loss is not to be measured merely in the terms of his peace resolution, the essence of which is now embodied in the German peace treaty. It is to be estimated in what he might have done, if his career had not been cut short, in helping to combat radicalism, socialism and bolshevism which are rife in the ranks of the discontented and even in the halls of national legislation. His mental balance, clearness of vision and courage of conviction, indeed, might have served the country more illustriously in this situation of the future than they have in those others of the past.

Cleans thoroughly It's Easy

It's just as easy to use the Hoover as an ordinary vacuum cleaner. Do not be content with a mere surface cleaning by air suction alone.

With the Hoover you may have your rugs beaten free of destructive embedded grit, swept clear of stubborn litter, and vacuum cleaned to get the surface dirt.

TWO WIVES WANT FREEDOM FROM THEIR HUSBANDS

Alice May Lanfear of Redwood City has commenced an action in the superior court, through her attorney, J. J. Bullock, against her husband, Arthur Henry Lanfear, a master plumber at Agnews, for an interlocutory decree of divorce on ground of desertion. The Lanfears were married in Redwood City on September 9, 1913, and separated in October, 1918. They have one child three years of age. Mrs. Lanfear asks for the custody of the child, $90 per month for support and such other relief as to the court may seem proper.

In a suit for divorce filed Monday through Albert Mansfield, May Miller Worden of Redwood City alleges that James D. Worden, whom she was married to in Hanford on February 2, 1914, has been guilty of extreme cruelty and through his actions toward her 14-year-old son by a former marriage has warranted her in asking for a divorce. She states that Worden deserted her and made it necessary to sell her ice cream and candy store on Broadway in Redwood City because she could not conduct it alone. She asks for a decree of divorce, a sum for support and counsel fee and costs.

MOTHER ASKS TO BE GUARDIAN

Maud Elbert has applied in the superior court for letters of guardianship upon the estates and persons of Alberta, Henry, Theodore and Gladys Elbert, minors. The petitioner is the mother of the children.

She is foolish who tries to build a structure of happiness upon a "hard lot" of a man.

ONE BRAND- ONE QUALITY- One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigaretty aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing, and only one, is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—that is CAMEL QUALITY.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

Mrs. Henry W. Smith has been entertaining Mrs. E. McDonald of Los Angeles for a week.

Miss Annie L. Harmon, the noted landscape artist of San Francisco, is staying with Miss E. Noel.

Douglass C. Anderson has sold his pretty home at Atherton to Mme. Nina Foley, fashionable dressmaker of San Francisco. The beautiful home located on the Selby lane was formerly owned by Mr. Grissim. The sum of $10,000 was paid for the property. Lambert & Walter of Redwood City negotiated the deal.

The masquerade ball given under the auspices of the Native Daughters last Saturday evening was a complete success, both financially and socially. The great crowd was unable to find standing room in the hall. The first gentleman's prize was won by George McDonald of San Carlos, second by Robert Carroll; first ladies' prize was carried off by Miss Louise Marks of Menlo Heights.

The large warehouse at the freight depot here belonging to the Union Ice Company that has been out of use for some years was filled with ice this week in anticipation of the railroad strike.

The Hallowe'en card party by the Companions of the Forest last evening was well attended and was a splendid social affair.

The Native Daughters and Companions of the Forest will have two floats in the big parade at San Mateo on Armistice Day, November 11. The organizations are making preparations to have a creditable display at the big gathering. Miss Gertrude Kavanaugh has been chosen queen for the Native Daughters' float and Miss Susie Gale for the Companions of the Forest.

A general exodus of peninsula residents to San Francisco for the winter season is taking place this week. Among the Menlo Park homes to be closed are those of Charles Dunphy, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stent, Alexander Hamilton, Augustus Taylor, C. McCormick and Henry Rosenfeld. "Linden Towers," the James Flood home, is also to be closed November 1 for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lowery have returned from their weding journey to their home in Menlo Park. They expect to take a house in San Francisco and spend the latter part of the winter there.

An interesting trip through the southern part of the state is being enjoyed by Misses Katharine and Christine Donohoe and Mary Emma Flood, who left their homes in Menlo Park Saturday to be gone two weeks. They have arrived in Santa Barbara, where they are stopping at El Encanto. They will proceed to Los Angeles to visit friends in that city before returning.

Dr. F. W. Harnden of San Francisco has begun the erection of a cozy home on his property recently bought by him in the Selby tract. The doctor is going to make his permanent home here. He is to join the great army of peninsula commuters.

Karl H. van Heusden, who recently purchased 14 acres in the Selby tract, has leased the Breeden home at Atherton for six months, during which time he hopes to have a $25,000 building completed on his property. Mr. van Heusden is a retired capitalist of Batavia, Java, and is very wealthy. His permanent home will be at Atherton.

A large audience greeted the opening of the new Menlo Park Theater Wednesday evening. The cozy show house was crowded to the doors, every seat being occupied and many persons were compelled to stand. The music was splendid and the pictures the very best. Everyone went away well pleased with the entertainment. It is to be hoped that the theater will receive the hearty support of the townspeople. Mr. Murray and Mr. Meyer deserve the thanks of every citizen of Menlo Park for their providing such a neat and cozy little theater for the amusement of all. Shows will be given each Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evening, with a matinee every Sunday afternoon.

WOODSIDE

George A. Armes and Katherine M. Armes of Berkeley have sold to Albert E. Kern their beautiful estate in the Rancho Canada de Raymundo, consisting of 37.69 acres and stone residence. This property is located on the road from Woodside to Portola Valley and adjoins the Folger estate. It was formerly owned by J. M. Lane, who built the residence. After purchasing the property Armes made extensive improvements and the tract is now considered one of the most attractive country places of the many located in that choice section of San Mateo county. It is reported that the new owner paid $75,000 for the property.

Fortunato E. Abecassis, who left his home in Woodside three months ago to visit Switzerland for the benefit of his health, passed away at Davos, Switzerland, on October 26. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. G. Abecassis. The deceased was a native of London. He maintained a beautiful home here, where he was well known and liked by all. The news of his demise has caused profound sorrow here.

SPEEDWAY AT SAN CARLOS UNDER CONSTRUCTION

The Greater San Francisco speedway at San Carlos, with John S. Prince, the noted construction engineer in charge, will be completed by December 11. Four million feet of lumber is being used in the construction of the speedway. The grand stand will have a seating capacity of 50,000, being 1,800 feet in length, with seating tiers 30 feet high. This is now in course of construction.

Six of the twelve drivers who will endeavor to break records at the speedway at the opening on December 11 have been signed up at the offices of the association. They include Roscoe Sarles, winner of the Cotati race Sunday, who won by a scant one-fifth of a second and averaged 108 miles an hour; Eddie Miller, Jerry Wonderlick, Frank Elliott, Joe Thomas and Tommy Milton.

All of the drivers went to San Carlos from San Francisco to see the new speedway, the first tier of which has just been completed. All of them seemed highly pleased. aries believes the San Carlos curves are much faster and that the straightaway stretches are longer.

DINNER IN HONOR OF CHAMBERLAIN'S BIRTHDAY

Tuesday evening last the members of the Sequoia Club gave a dinner in a local cafe in honor of the 81st birthday of County Treasurer P. P. Chamberlain. Mrs. Fred W. Glennan made a large birthday cake for the occasion and placed it on the table with 81 candles. Those present made complimentary speeches concerning the long political career of the popular treasurer. Mr. Chamberlain assumed the duties of that office in January, 1882, and has been elected in every campaign since that time. This long tenure of office demonstrates Mr. Chamberlain's popularity.

A. D. Walsh acted as toastmaster at the dinner. Those present were P. P. Chamberlain, A. D. Walsh, J. F. Johnston, H. W. Schaberg, John MacBain, Ole Johnson, D. P. Flynn, Carl Muller, Henry W. Steinberger, Asa Hull, Ernest Werder, J. C. Dickie, George E. Stafford, J. Perry, Guy P. Hull and T. P. Maloney.
